

Status: 9 November

Weather: Overcast with light snow in the morning, then overcast through the afternoon becoming partly cloudy by sunset. Very windy throughout the day, increasing through the early evening. Saturday is expected to be sunny.

Tasking:

- The morning data check revealed no obvious issues.
- We are concerned the batteries will not make it through the night, since there was very little solar getting through today. We will test it to see if the batteries can make it, as they should according to Steve's calculations.
- No site visit today otherwise.

There will not be an IOP tonight, but there is one scheduled for early evening on Saturday.
