

Status: 11 November

Weather: Mostly sunny skies again today, with some clouds rolling in just after sunset. Light winds much of the day and a bit warmer than the past couple of days. Tonight a cold front should arrive, bringing overcast conditions and potential for snow showers throughout the day tomorrow.

Tasking:

- There were no obvious issues noted with the data today.
- When driving by P4 this morning, Ned noticed that the tubing was disconnected from the pressure port. We have no idea when this could have happened. We replaced the tubing and zip tie.

There will be another IOP tonight starting at 1900. No IOP is scheduled for tomorrow.